MOTION FOR WAIVER (SUPPLEMENT TO REPLY)

Plaintiff/Appellant Walter Tuvell hereby moves that this Court grant waiver for him to include SUPPLEMENT: OppExhA AplApx_{77-111 Bis} in his Appellant Reply (Apltrply) — which contains nothing new, only improvements.

As reasons therefor, Tuvell states as follows (this information is also repeated at Apltrply₃₁):

As noted previously (at AplApx₂), the version of Marshall's blogpage in dispute as presented at AplApx₇₇₋₁₁₁ is somewhat difficult to read (though substantively accurate), compared to its original version (OppExhA) — because, the required addition of an OCR text layer has badly impaired the quality of its images (colors and sharpness) and some text (esp. links).

We have now sought-out, and obtained, a better OCR technology, which retains the readability quality of the original OppExhA. The result is presented in the proposed Supplement.

The page-numbers of both OppExhA and the AplApx₇₇₋₁₁₁ have been retained in the Supplement (there's no need for 35 more/new page-numbers); and we also take the opportunity to make the correction and mark-up noted on the first page of the Supplement (Apltrply₃₂ AplApx_{77 Bis}). No other changes have been made (in particular, of course, no content has been deleted/obscured).

We believe this good-faith Supplement will helpfully aid the Panel in its mission (that's its sole purpose).
